SINCERE THANKS

The kindness of relatives and friends who shared our sorrow has comforted and sustained us in the loss of beloved CONNOR.

We thank you sincerely for your expressions of sympathy.

Life is full of difficult times. But someone out there always has it worse than you do. If you fill your days with pity, sorrowful for the way you have been treated, bemoaning your lot in life, blaming your circumstances on someone or something else, then life will be long and hard. If, on the other hand, you refuse to give up on your dreams, stand tall and strong against the odds - then life will be what you make of it - and you can make it great. Never, ever, ring the bell!
